

NATIONAL POST

By: Gina Mallet
September 7, 2011

TIFF: Best bets for après-film bevvies

Wed Sep 7 2011
Section: Posted Toronto
Byline: Gina Mallet

It's that time of year again when Toronto's restrictive licensing laws get relaxed for the Toronto International Film Festival, and when those who want to sing Set 'Em Up Joe to a bartender at 3 a.m., can do so legally. Yippee. And all because it looks kinda lousy if Brad Pitt can't slip his minders and buy a Redneck beer when he wants it.

The Drake Hotel 1150 Queen St. W., 416-531-5042
Fauxbo de luxe, the lightning rod for global hipsters.
Roof is for moonies. Bar open till 4 a.m., last reservation for dinner 10:30 p.m. Neil Young's gotta be here